Why We Started The Carson Hawks Foundation

Carson is one of the 1 in every 8,000 children born with Dentinogenesis Imperfecta, a genetic disorder that affects the development of their teeth. Many of these children need some type of dental prosthetic, and the restoration process requires multi-disciplinary dental teams. When the treatment gets down to the final mile and the child needs implants or dentures, dental insurance does not have a code for the medical condition, so medical insurance calls it a cosmetic procedure. The families are often left with devastating options, enter into overwhelming debt or left unable to help their child overcome the ailment.

We started our journey to help Carson in 2017. The foundation is committed to continue helping children with DI and other developmental defects of the teeth for generations to come.
